

FIELD REPORT WRITING

Larimore's unique Field Reporting System gives your officers an exact replica of the Larimore Incident System in their vehicles.

Officers have access to the live Larimore database from their vehicles – and the data they enter in the field is added to the database with every save.

Consistency in the field

- ◆ Because officers in the field use the same software as they do in-house, no extra training is necessary
- ◆ Officers can search the data on the in-house server at any time through the mobile units as they have live access to the full database
- ◆ Officers have access to all of the validation and libraries as they would see in house

Time Saving System

- ◆ The Narrative section of the report includes an auto-save feature, to minimize lost data should the connection be temporarily broken
- ◆ Using highly flexible Thin Client software, only data is passed between vehicles and servers at headquarters; as a result, the software runs very quickly
- ◆ The data is encrypted and compressed for high speed transmission
- ◆ If connection is lost, the system will make several attempts to connect to the in house system; if a connection cannot be made, the system will prompt the user to try again, so that no data is lost

Optional custom reports

- ◆ Larimore can review your existing incident report(s) and determine which report(s) can be programmed into the Larimore system so that the incident data displays in the structure used by your department and as required by the prosecutor

Field Reporting expands on the existing Larimore Incident System. Therefore, the costs involved with Field reporting are installation costs and licensing costs.
